

How many enzymes should I take?

Enzyme Quick Facts

- Pancreatic enzymes are needed to break down the foods you eat so that your body can absorb them.
- Enzymes work best when taken before or during your meal. But if you forget, you can take them up to 30 minutes after your meal.
- Enzymes are dosed based on the amount of fat in your meal. A meal high in fat would need more enzymes than a meal low in fat.
- You don't need to take enzymes with simple sugars such as juice, candy, pop and fruit.

Take 1 Creon10 enzyme for every 5 grams of fat you eat. *

Here are some examples to show how the amount of enzymes you need changes with different meal and snack choices.

Breakfast Foods

Meal	Amount	Amount of Fat	# of Enzymes
Bagel Peanut Butter Jam	1 small 1 tbsp 1 tsp	1 gram 8 grams 0 grams Total: 9 grams	2 Creon10
Granola cereal Whole Milk	1 cup ½ cup	6 grams 4 grams Total: 10 grams	2 Creon10
